

A Sub-Fund of Morgan Stanley Investment Funds

Developing Opportunity Fund

GLOBAL OPPORTUNITY

Performance Review

In the three month period ending 30 September 2025, the Fund's I shares returned 5.70% (net of fees)¹, while the benchmark returned 10.64%.

Global Opportunity creates a high conviction, concentrated portfolio of undervalued, high quality businesses. The long-term investment horizon and high active share approach can result in periods of performance deviation from the benchmark. The Fund underperformed the MSCI Emerging Markets Index this quarter due to unfavourable stock selection despite favourable sector allocation.

Market Review

Emerging markets equities advanced in the quarter, driven by the materials, communication services, consumer discretionary and information technology sectors. The energy, financials, consumer staples and real estate sectors underperformed the benchmark. On a country basis, Egypt, Peru, China, South Africa and Colombia outperformed, while the Philippines, India and Indonesia declined, underperforming the benchmark.

Portfolio Review

Stock selection in consumer discretionary and financials and the portfolio's underweight positions in the information technology, real estate and materials sectors were the greatest overall detractors from relative performance. Top individual detractors included Latin American ecommerce company MercadoLibre, Korean digital bank KakaoBank, Chinese consumer service super-app Meituan, Chinese online lending platform Qifu Technology and an underweight position in Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co.

Conversely, a sector overweight position in consumer discretionary, an underweight position in energy, and stock selection in communication services, information technology and materials were the greatest overall contributors to the relative performance of the portfolio during the period. Top individual contributors included Chinese travel agency Trip.com, Indian quick commerce company Eternal, Southeast Asian super app Grab, Latin American digital bank, Korean ecommerce platform Coupang.

Shares of MercadoLibre underperformed after reporting second quarter earnings below expectations driven by a contraction in operating margins as the company increases investments in marketing and lowers free shipping thresholds in Brazil. We believe that MercadoLibre is investing in the future of its ecommerce and fintech ecosystem to sustain long-term growth. MercadoLibre is the largest ecommerce platform in Latin America, with a presence in 18 countries including Brazil, Argentina and Mexico; 90 million active buyers on its online marketplaces; and 68 million fintech active users of its Mercado Pago digital payments platform.² We believe MercadoLibre can increasingly benefit by monetising the uniqueness of its platform in Latin America, which has a population of more than 668 million and one of the fastest-growing internet penetration rates in the world.³

Shares of KakaoBank declined due to tighter government regulations on household lending, which has led to concerns on near-term loan growth. KakaoBank is a digital bank with full banking license in Korea, servicing over 80% of the economically active population.⁴ We believe KakaoBank is unique due to its strong technological infrastructure, customer interface, differentiated products and Kakao brand name. KakaoBank is fully digital with no branches, which reduces the cost of operating the business and we believe can sustain long-term profitability. The Korean banking system is large with weak incumbents and smartphone penetration in the country is high, creating what we believe is an ideal backdrop for KakaoBank to grow through market share gains.

Shares of Trip.com outperformed after a strong second quarter earnings print and upbeat commentary, which eased concerns about reinvestment-driven margin pressure. Management highlighted robust summer travel along with momentum in overseas expansion and advertising, with a new share buyback announcement underpinning positive sentiment. New artificial intelligence (AI) tools (TripGenie/Trip.Planner) are boosting engagement, funnelling users to bookable itineraries and automating service, supporting stickier direct demand and efficiency into the platform.

Shares of Eternal rallied after reporting strong first quarter results with 70% year-over-year revenue growth,⁵ led by Blinkit's rapid expansion, along with a positive outlook on margin. Eternal is a leading India-based food delivery and quick commerce platform, with strong network effects of almost 21 million monthly transacting customers, almost 300,000 restaurant partners and over 450,000 delivery partners.⁶ The Indian online food delivery market is very attractive due to its significant underpenetration relative to other countries, a fragmented restaurant industry with chain restaurants accounting for 6%-7% of industry sales⁷ and a favourable duopoly market structure. E-commerce in India, especially online grocery, is significantly underpenetrated relative to other countries. We believe Eternal will likely benefit from Indian food consumption growth, transition from home cooked food to restaurant food, and higher adoption of food delivery and online commerce services.

Strategy and Outlook

Against an uncertain market backdrop, we remain focused on a portfolio of high-quality, growing businesses that are generally less sensitive to macroeconomic conditions and policy uncertainty.

In the third quarter, developing equity markets were driven by continued enthusiasm for artificial intelligence, particularly among semiconductor and hardware companies in Korea and Taiwan. We do not hold these names, as we have less conviction in their long-term growth drivers. Instead, we see some of the most compelling opportunities arising from the second- and third-order effects of such technological developments. Our portfolio includes distinctive companies that, even in a pre-AI world, are well positioned to embrace these innovations by enhancing their competitive advantages and potentially unlocking significant value through deeper customer engagement.

While recent underperformance is disappointing, our conviction in the portfolio's holdings remains strong. The fundamentals of our companies are strong, with revenues expected to grow at 12.5%, compared with 8.7% for the benchmark.⁸ (Furthermore, 99% of the portfolio is projected to be free cash flow positive by 2027, offering an attractive 5.6% consensus estimated free cash flow yield based on 2027 estimates.)⁸

INDEX INFORMATION

The MSCI Emerging Markets Net Index is a free float-adjusted market capitalization weighted index that is designed to measure equity market performance of emerging markets. The term "free float" represents the portion of shares outstanding that are deemed to be available for purchase in the public equity markets by investors. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index currently consists of 24 emerging-market country indices. The performance of the index is listed in U.S. dollars and assumes reinvestment of net dividends. The index does not include any expenses, fees or sales charges, which would lower performance.

The index is unmanaged and does not include any expenses, fees or sales charges. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Any index referred to herein is the intellectual property (including registered trademarks) of the applicable licensor. Any product based on an index is in no way sponsored, endorsed, sold or promoted by the applicable licensor and it shall not have any liability with respect thereto.
